

SUBSIDISED TRAINING FACT SHEET

NSW GOVERNMENT TRAINING SUBSIDIES

NSW PROGRAMMES

- Smart and Skilled Entitlement Programmes
- Smart and Skilled Targeted Priorities Programmes
- Smart and Skilled Adult and Community Education Programmes

The NSW government provides training subsidies to eligible learners seeking to enrol in selected training programmes with an approved training provider. Its Smart and Skilled initiative is aimed at helping people get the skills they require to find a job and advance their careers. This includes providing eligible students, including trainees, with an entitlement to government subsidised training on a broad range of qualifications at levels up to and including Certificate III (or higher in selected priority areas).

Students unable to access training under Entitlement or Targeted Priorities programmes may still be eligible for a subsidy under Adult and Community Education Programmes such as the Smart and Skilled Community Service Obligation (CSO) programme. This programme specifically caters for disadvantaged students and for those living or working in regional or remote areas. Subsidies are also available for short courses relevant to small business operators and their staff through the Tech Savvy for Small Business (TSB) programme.

PROGRAMME ELIGIBILITY

All Smart and Skilled Programmes

You may be entitled to a Smart and Skilled training subsidy if you meet citizenship/residency requirements, are aged over 15 years and not at school, and you live or work in NSW:
