SKILLS CHECKPOINT FOR OLDER WORKERS PROGRAM AND SKILLS AND TRAINING INCENTIVE

INFORMATION FOR PARTICIPANTS

The Skills Checkpoint for Older Workers Program (Skills Checkpoint) and Skills and Training Incentive (the Incentive) are initiatives to help older Australians through career advice and guidance and investment in training to adopt a life-long approach to skills development to stay employed longer.

Who is eligible?

To participate in the Skills Checkpoint, you must be:

- an Australian Citizen or permanent resident
- aged 45 to 70
- currently employed and at risk of entering the income support system or
- unemployed within the last nine months and not registered with an employment services provider.

To access the Incentive, you must first complete a Skills Checkpoint assessment that identifies training linked to your current job (e.g. upgrading skills), a future job opportunity, or an industry, occupation or skill in demand.

What does the Skills Checkpoint offer?

The Skills Checkpoint offers tailored skills assessment, advice on transitioning into new roles, upskilling in your current role or industry, pathways to a new career, and referral to relevant education or training.

What can I expect?

You will meet with your Skills Checkpoint provider so they can get to know you and understand your needs. You will then undertake an individually tailored skills assessment.

Your Skills Checkpoint provider will use this information to develop a Career Plan to identify:

- your current skills
- gaps in your skills to move to a new career or undertake a new role in your current occupation
- skills you could develop or improve to increase your capacity to perform your current role.

Your Skills Checkpoint provider will talk with you about your Career Plan and where relevant, will suggest potential new industries or roles where there may be job opportunities, and make recommendations and referrals to relevant training.

What assistance is available to help with the cost of training?

If your Career Plan identifies that you would benefit from further training, you will be eligible to access the Incentive. The Incentive provides up to $2,200 (GST inclusive) to fund either accredited or nonaccredited training.

You or your employer must match the government contribution.

Why do I need to contribute to funding?

The Incentive is a joint investment with the government to encourage individuals to undertake life-long development and stay competitive in the jobs market.

Do I need to involve my employer?

No. You do not need to ask your employer to undertake either the Skills Checkpoint or access the Incentive. You may want to discuss your Career Plan with your employer to identify future opportunities and see if they will match the co-contribution for the Incentive to help with the cost of training.

Your Skills Checkpoint provider may be able to help with these conversations.

Why would my employer be willing to pay the co-contribution?

Many employers are already investing in their ongoing workforce development. They understand that over time skill requirements change and to retain and develop their staff, they may need to invest in training and reskilling.

The Incentive provides an opportunity for employers to reduce the costs of updating the skills of their older workers and ensure their business is better able to adapt to change.
